8 References

Effects of intravenous infusions of sodium bicarbonate on blood oxygen binding in calves with diarrhoea.

Bicarbonate transport along the loop of Henle. II Effects of acid-base, dietary and neurohumoral determinants.

Acute metabolic acidosis inhibits muscle protein synthesis in rats.

Serum protein electrophoretic pattern in young and adults camels

Preoperative prognostic indicators in cattle with abomasal volvulus.

Determinants and utility of the anion gap in predicting hyperlactaemia in cattle.

Comparison of anion gap and strong ion gap as predictors of unmeasured strong ion concentration in plasma and serum from horses.

Clinical assessment of acid-base status: Strong ion difference theory.

Clinical assessment of acid-base status: Comparison of the Henderson-Hasselbalch and strong ion approaches.

Total weak acids concentration and effective dissociation constant of non-volatile buffers in human plasma.

Utrastructural kidney changes during diarrhoea and renal function following infusion treatment of calves with diarrhoea.

Pathophysiological aspects of acidosis in diarrhoeic calves.
Tierärztl. Umsch., 52: 568-574.

Effects of sodium acetate, bicarbonate and lactate on acid-base status in anaesthetized dogs.

The acid-base status in bovine neonates during the first days of life considering different states of vitality.

Adding lactate to the prime solution during hypothermic cardiopulmonary bypass: A quantitative acid-base analysis.

Ureagensis: evidence for a lack of hepatic regulation of acid-base equilibrium in humans.

Dietary cation-anion difference effects on performance and acid-base status of lactating dairy cows: A meta-analysis.

Acid-base effects of altering plasma concentration in human blood in vitro.

Seasonal variations in haematological and serum biochemical parameters in racing camels.

Investigation into intraerythrocytic and extraerythrocytic acid-base and electrolyte changes after long term ammonium chloride administration in dogs.

Effects of a hypertonic saline solution and dextran 70 combination in the treatment of diarrhoeic hydrated calves.

Alterations in the systemic acid-base status and blood gas dynamic during progressive hypercalcaemia in calves.

Haemodynamics, blood gas and metabolic changes after anaesthesia with choral hydrate and magnesium sulphate in camels (Camelus dromedaries).

The value of anion gap and osmolar gap determination in veterinary medicine.

Report of ad hoc committee on acid-base terminology.

Walker, P.G., Constable, P.D., Morin, D.E., Drackley, J.K., Foreman, J.H., and Thurmon,
A reliable, practical and economical protocol for inducing diarrhoea and severe dehydration in the neonatal calf.

Effects of environmental heat and intake of tall fescue seed infested with Acremonium coenophilum on the acid-base status of young bulls.

Effects of supplemental protein on acid-base status and calcium metabolism of nonlactating Jersey cows.

Effects of ammonium chloride and sulphate on acid-base status of dry Jersey cows.

Effect of metabolic acidosis on NaCl transport in the proximal tubule.

Experiments with the double isotope single-injection method for determining glomerular filtration rate and effective renal plasma flow in veal calves.

Modelling the effects of protein on pH in plasma.

Hyperkalaemic atrial standstill in neonatal calf diarrhoea.

Experimentally induced rumen acidosis in a 1-year-old camel bull (Camelus dromedarius)-a preliminary report.

Clinical applications of quantitative acid-base chemistry.

